

Lightroom and Post-Production Workshops

Here is an update from Janice at Imagen Media House regarding the Post Processing workshops being offered to our membership.

After Jason Symington's Painterly Portrait workshop, Boris and a couple of the other attendees had mentioned wanting some more workshops and specifically ones that centred on post-production.

If either of these workshops interest you, please contact Janice directly:

"I would like to offer the club another workshop focused on Lightroom for photographers, including best practice. This workshop will be a small class size (max of 10) done at a relaxing pace, with handouts and one-on-one help. A second workshop I would like to offer is our post-production workshop (revised), where we focus on moving between Lightroom and Photoshop. This too will be a small class size (max of 10) done at a relaxed pace, with handouts and one-on-one help.

"Students will need to have a laptop with a subscription to Adobe Lightroom and Photoshop (I'm sure the majority of your members already have this, if not they can do the trial version for the workshop) and the desire to take their photography to the next level with post-production."
